Introduction

Over the last few years there have been some significant developments at the Ministry. This includes the launch of our strategies Te Pae Tawhiti, Te Pae Tata and Pacific Prosperity and more recently the COVID-19 response. These strategies and COVID-19 are currently shaping the way in which we deliver services to the people of New Zealand. The People and Capability Group has responded by providing the “corporate” services that are needed to support these changes. I thank every one of you for your contribution to the Ministry and support you have provided to me and the Leadership Team.

As you know we will need to do more, as there will be more demand for IT, finance, property and people advice and services. The “hosted” services we provide such as the Independent Children’s Monitor, Social Services Accreditation and Historic Claims are also having to adapt to meet our changing world.

To increase the effectiveness of our support to the Ministry, clients and providers I have decided to change the configuration of the groups reporting to me and therefore the role of some of the senior leaders. I am not making significant changes to the roles and teams reporting to the General Managers at this stage. However, I intend to restart the Alignment for Success (AfS) programme in IT to deliver a new leadership structure that implements an Agile way of working.

I would like to thank everyone that provided feedback into this decision which has given me some good insights, particularly around making sure the decisions are well implemented and successful.

I am looking forward to working with you all to make sure it’s a smooth and successful transition.

Stephen

Your feedback

We received 25 submissions during the consultation process, which included a range of thoughts, questions, and issues raised. It was great to see a mix of both individual and team submissions.

Thank you all who took the time to participate in the consultation process and provide your thoughts on what was proposed. Some questions and comments were answered directly, either via the email address or face to face via open door sessions.

There were some clear themes that came through in the submissions. I have broadly summarised the key themes submitted and my responses below.

DCE Office

There was support for the proposed changes to streamlining the DCE Office including moving the Better Every Day (BED) team to the Improvement, Systems and Technology group.

Improvement, Systems and Technology Group

There were a number of submissions in this area and in general everyone supported the establishment of the new group and Group General Manager of Improvement, Systems and Technology role.

System Improvement Practice

Because of your feedback I have decided to rename the Advisory Group to now be the System Improvement Practice which will be led by the Head of System Improvement Practice. This better reflects the purpose of the group.

There was quite a bit of feedback on making sure that people understand the purpose of the new System Improvement Practice Group and how it can benefit the Ministry, especially outside of IT. People saw the benefit in combining the expertise of the BED and Agile practitioners to help the Ministry further centre its delivery around the client and acknowledging that this group can't be seen as just an IT focused group. This will be an important focus for the new group once they are established. There are synergies between the BED team, systems thinking and the Alignment for Success programme (AfS). As part of AfS, consideration will be needed around what development and administrative people may be required to support the team and also provide clarity on how to successfully help transition the EeD team to the new group. There were also positive comments about the inclusion of the 'improvement' focus in the Improvement, Systems and Technology Group.

Agile and Service Design

There was support for the continuing maturing of the 'Agile' approach throughout the organisation at all levels and the need to exhibit agile behaviours. Also, it was commented that we need to better measure the things that we are doing (speed, efficiency and effectiveness). I agree that it's important that we all exhibit agile principles and behaviours to build an agile organisation. We need to recognise that not everyone will want to or are suited to working in this way, but we need to move progressively away from functional silos and increase the level of collaboration. The way we track our progress is part of a broader discussion that will be picked up as part of the work to increase the capacity of the IT group.

A question was asked around where service design will feature in the new structure. Service design is carried out in a number of areas in the organisation, particularly Service Delivery and the final decision has service design capability included in of Improvement, Systems and Technology function. This will not be the only place service design occurs but indicates that this capability needs to be enhanced.

One piece of feedback asked that there be more of a focus on DevOps culture and practices. I agree with this and we will need to consider this as part of AfS.

Enterprise Architecture

There was feedback regarding Enterprise Architecture team as these roles are not currently in scope of the AfS programme. This is an important function for the new Improvement, Systems and Technology group and so this team will now be included in the scope for AfS and subsequent consultation. There was also an associated question around having so many different areas in the Ministry responsible for strategy, including the Enterprise Architecture team. In my view all the strategy work is aligned to the strategic direction set at the Ministry level. The Strategy and Insights Group provides this Ministry wide leadership.

Corporate Development Programme

Overall, there was support for this function. There were some questions around the provision of 'shared services' and what we would continue to provide especially to Oranga Tamariki. We are progressing an agreed plan for separation of the organisations and reducing the shared services provided to Oranga Tamariki.

This proposal does not cover any specific changes in shared services, however they are intended to reduce over time. If services to other organisations reduce there are opportunities to provide more services to the Ministry. For example, I see opportunities for the National Accounting Centre team to provide further value within the Ministry.

There was also a question about what other roles and functions would sit under the Corporate Development Programme including change management. There will be more resources added (standing teams) to the Corporate Development Programme as required over time but this is not covered in this proposal. Change management as being an essential element of the Corporate Platform implementation work.

It was raised that the Corporate Platform work would touch many areas and people were keen to be connected with this work. There will be significant opportunity for groups to be involved in the Corporate Platform work as it develops.

Commercial Operations

There was general support for the establishment of this new function which was described as being a pragmatic and sensible decision that helps to leverage off current capabilities within each of the functional areas.

Contract Management

There was a question about what was intended in the 'contract management' function and whether this also meant new contract management resources were required. A related question was how this related to Category Managers. It's likely that new capability will be required in the contract management area. The details of the contract management function will be developed and consulted as part of the next phases when the commercial operations function is in place.

National Accounting Centre (NAC)

There was feedback about the change in reporting and what this would mean for the NAC. The NAC plays such an important role and has connections right across the Ministry, including with the Finance team. There were proposals that some parts of the NAC might sit better with the Finance team (ie accounts receivable and payments) while acknowledging that there were better linkages under the new Commercial Operations team for other areas (such as the Facilities team). I do not want to split the NAC up and there is a lot to gain by continuing as an integrated unit. I acknowledge that there are some synergies with Finance and these need to continue. The relationships between groups need to remain strong and the NAC will need to remain connected to a wide range of groups in the Ministry.

Crown Revenue

A question was asked about what happens with the Lower Hutt and Auckland based staff under this proposal. There are no changes for these staff as they will continue to sit under Finance.

Facilities Management Officers

It was suggested that these roles could be grouped with the Property and Facilities team. The merits of this would be considered once the Commercial Operations Group is formed.

Chief Procurement Officer (CPO) Role

A question was asked on what happened to this role and would I consider recruiting for this role. The CPO role was disestablished some time ago. Once the Commercial Operations group is established consideration will be given to any further roles needed which would be subject to a change process.

Property

Feedback received highlighted that improvements could be made by establishing some senior capability in the Property and Facilities team to help bridge an accountability gap and challenges with contract management. Appropriate resourcing levels will be considered outside of any structure proposals covered by this document.

Finance Group

There was general support for the strategic focus of the new group. Acknowledging the concerns having NAC as part of the Commercial Operations function which were acknowledged earlier.

There was a concern raised that having the Chief Financial Officer's report directly into the Deputy Chief Executive function would compromise the requirement to provide independent advice to the Chief Executive and Leadership Team. I appreciate the concerns raised, last year the Chief Executive realigned the Leadership Team and a decision was made on the functions that would be reporting to the Deputy Chief Executives. To maintain independence and ensure that we are meeting our statutory accountabilities the Chief Financial Officer has access to the Chief Executive and Leadership Team if required.

Other feedback related to the proposal

Leadership Across the Ministry

I noted that there were concerns raised in relation to the command and control behaviour of some managers across the Ministry and the increased need for people to work more collaboratively as a whole. I agree that we need to continue find ways of collaborating and leading in a way that gets the best from people.

Portfolio Executive Committee (PEC)

While not part of the proposal there was feedback on the PEC process which is required to manage competing priorities and have robust solutions that are well thought through and consulted on by stakeholders. To address this we are:

- reviewing PEC and how we are making investment
- updating the information and technology strategy.

Change Process

There was some feedback about the consultation timeframe, the feelings were mixed with some agreeing that it was necessary to have a tight timeframe in order to reach conclusions and implement changes at pace where others were concerned that the timeframe for consultation was too tight. I appreciate the thoughts shared and felt that the feedback I received showed that people really thought about the points they had made and have added value. My focus is to have the right structure in place as soon as possible to support Ministry's strategy.

Senior Manager Opportunities

Concerns were raised that there was a lack of clarity on what this proposal means for Senior Manager opportunities within the Ministry. I appreciate the concerns raised and encourage people to apply for roles as part of the change or when opportunities arise across the Ministry.

Accessibility

There was feedback on ensuring that all documents placed on Doogle were accessible, I agree that accessibility standards and guidelines need to be followed. Some general feedback was received regarding the need for the Accessibility Charter Working Group to become a more formalised group within the Ministry. Although this feedback is outside the scope of this proposal, I welcome further feedback on this and will continue to champion accessibility across the Ministry and will discuss with the Accessibility Working Group.

Decision

After considering all the submissions received, I am confirming my final decisions on the following pages. The new structure will be effective from 1 October 2020 onward.

Relative to the proposal the key decisions are:

DCE Office Functions

With regards to the DCE Office functions the two Associate Deputy Chief Executive (ADCE) positions will be disestablished.

Improvement Systems and Technology

The current Chief Information Officer and Chief Technology Officer positions will be disestablished, and a Group General Manager Improvement, Systems and Technology role will be established.

The Advisory Services function will be renamed to System Improvement Practice and a new Head System Improvement Practice role will be established (as part of AfS) to lead this function. The BED team currently reporting to the DCE will move to this group.

The Alignment for Success (AfS) programme to create a new organisation structure to support and agile way of working is due to recommence in July 2020. This will include a proposal to change roles at the leadership level within the IT group. Therefore, the implementation of these decisions and the consultation on any AfS related structure changes will happen in parallel. This will create some complexities which we will need to manage and I will ensure that any impacted people are effectively communicated with and consulted.

As a mechanism to deal formally with this you will see roles transitioned to the Group General Manager Improvement, Systems and Technology on 1 October 2020. However, there is the potential of new structure being agreed as part of the AfS process prior to this and this may change roles and reporting lines prior to this date. In all cases the Ministry's change process will be followed and therefore there will be consultation before any final decisions.

Corporate Development Programme

A new Corporate Development Programme function will be established to manage and lead various work programs including the implementation of the Corporate Platform, transition of shared services and support the performance of the People and Capability. A Director, Corporate Development Programme role will be established for a two-year fixed term. Principal Advisor and Senior Advisor roles will also be created to support the Director.

Commercial Operations

A new Commercial Operations group will be formed including the National Accounting Centre (NAC), Property, Procurement and Contract Management ¹and will be led by the Group General Manager Commercial Operations.

The reporting line for the General Manager Property and Facilities will change to the Group General Manager Commercial Operations.

Finance

The current Chief Financial Officer (CFO) role will be disestablished and a new Group General Manager Finance role (that would also hold the title of CFO) will be established.

Integrated Portfolio Management (IPM)

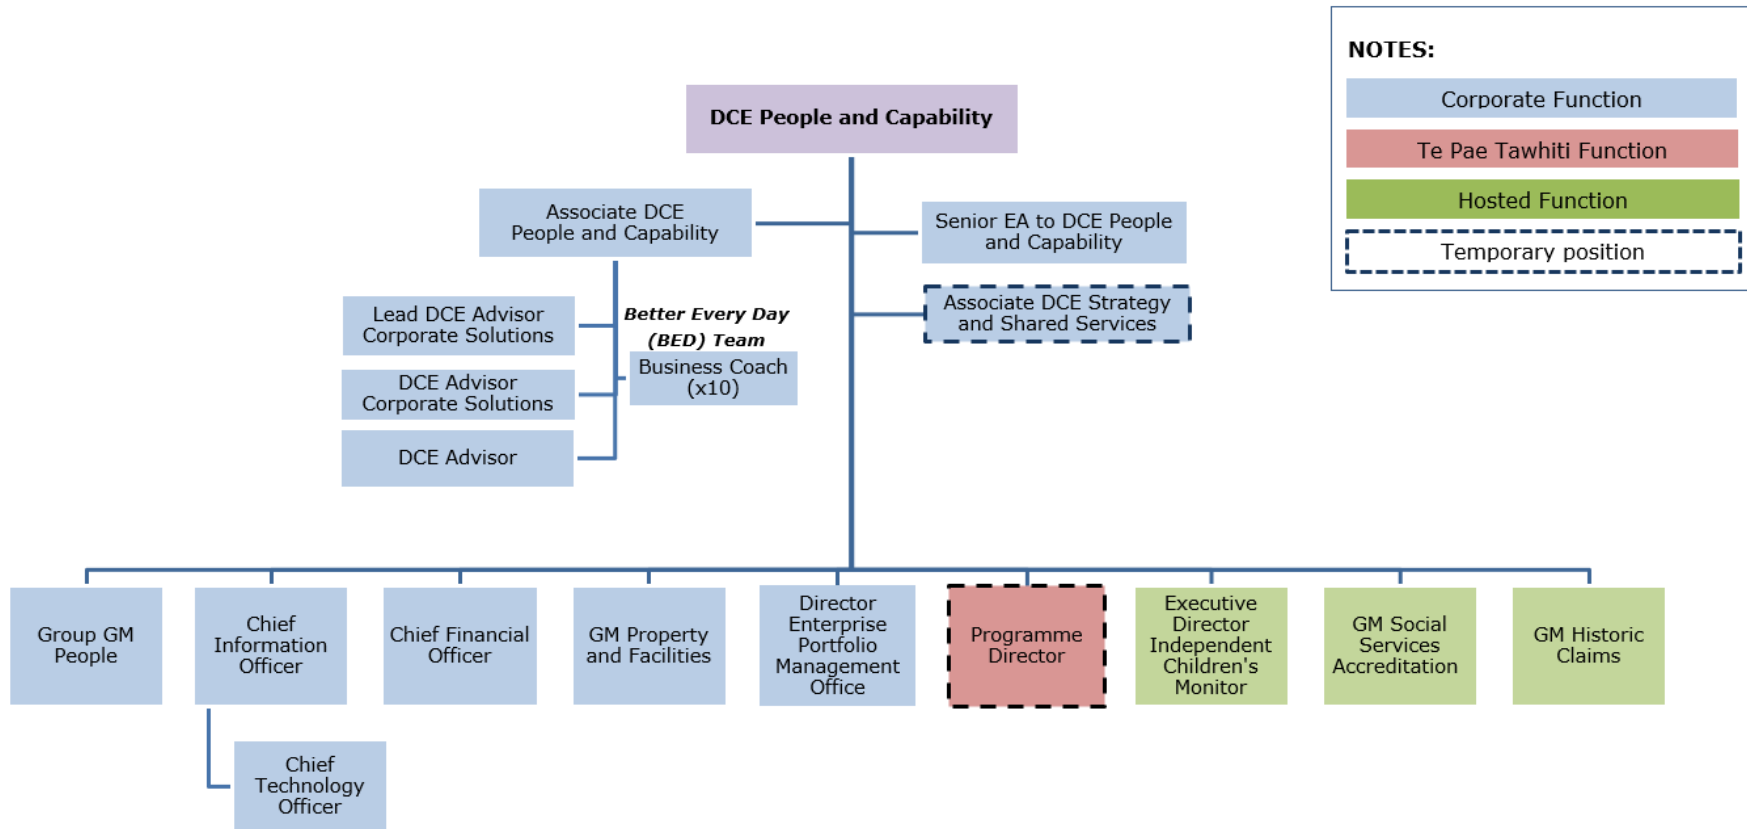

The Enterprise Portfolio Management Office (EPMO) function, renamed Integrated Portfolio Management (IPM) will transfer to the Strategy and Insights Group on 1 July 2020.

¹ This is for "corporate" contracts (IT, property, facilities etc) and does not include contracts managed by Māori, Community and Partnerships.
